Arnall Rules Abolishing Office of 'Executive Director' To Be Valid But Not That of 'Director.'

Lem P. James was restored for the second time to directorship of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in the State Department of Labor by executive order of Governor Rivers issued late yesterday.

The Governor's action followed an opinion by Attorney General Ellis Arnall ruling that James was not removed as director by Labor Commissioner Ben Huiet's order ousting him as "executive director."

In Huiet's absence from the city. A. L. Henson, his attorney, made public last night a statement and a letter to the Governor declaring that two persons, James and J. S. Rivers, now held commissions for the post, and suggesting the Governor withdraw from the controversy and permit it to be settled Questions of fact are necessarily, involved. Is and not the executive—to determine which of these men is entitled to the same?

Questions that the executive has jurisdiction, would not the present Governor be disqualified because of his relationship to one of the claimants?

I hope, therefore, that you will relegate the matter to the civil courts for their appropriate action since it appears from the record that a decision on both law and facts is necessary.

This question is different, as you will recognize, from those cases in which rival claimants seek to enter upon the duties of office, or seek to be commissioned. In those cases it is the decision of the Governor as to whom he will commission. The Governor loses jurisdiction once the commission issued and title thereunder must be set up in the courts.

This appears to me to be a case for either a mandamus court or a quo warranto court. This is especially true since, if the matter is determined by the Governor, neither party has any right of appeal, as would be the case in the courts.

Cordially yours,

A. L. HENSON.

Portraits of House Economy Probers

As June 1—the date they lose their commissions as "legislative physicians"—draws near, the five members of the Georgia house of representatives economy committee yesterday were "subjects" in word pictures painted by the Associated Press. These five men, under authorization of the Georgia house, during the past five months have inquired methodically and sometimes suspiciously into the operation of dozens of departments, divisions, boards and bureaus of the state's administrative machine. From this committee's comprehensive diagnosis, the house of representatives hopes to find a means of curing, at least easing, the financially sick state government—possibly at an extra session in mid-August. Here are thumbnail sketches of the men who directed the investigation

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 17, 1939.

Special Session

The city council of Atlanta, in adopting resolutions asking Governor Rivers to call a special session of the legislature, merely joined in voicing an opinion that is rapidly spreading all over the state. Georgians are realizing that the financial situation of their state today is so grave that some action must be taken without delay.

The logic of the situation is plain. There is not enough revenue to continue the programs of education, of social welfare and of state development which the people have authorized by their vote. It is simple to see that one of two things must be done. Either those programs must be so curtailed they can be financed by present revenue, or revenues must be increased. These are the only alternatives.

The economy committee which has been in session since the assembly adjourned has done a fine job, but it has about reached the limit of its effectiveness. As was known to all unbiased observers, even before the committee began its work, the economies possible could only save a fractional part of the amount needed to balance the state's budget. Those savings have now been effected and there is still a wide gap between the need and the money available. That gap must be closed from one end or the other, as outlined. Either by decreasing state services or by increasing revenue.

People of Georgia should have learned a lesson this year. That is, that no government service can be enjoyed without paying for it. It is illogical to expect any government to provide benefits for its people like manna from heaven. Everything must be paid for out of tax revenues.

Of course there are major economies in the Georgia set-up which could be made, but there is little likelihood of these being consummated. Probably the greatest, and the one which would bring largest benefits to the state and to its people as a whole, would be drastic reduction in the number of counties. Most observers, while agreeing with this, at the same time consider it practically impossible at this time because of political considerations.

It should be the earnest prayer of all Georgians anxious about the welfare of their state that, if a special session of the legislature is called, its members may so conduct themselves they will serve the interests of the state unselfishly and will forget, for this session at least. those political ambitions which were largely to blame for the futility of the regular session.

The legislature, in great majority, is composed of the most loyal and best type of citizenship. There are a few, however, who, either because of personal ambitions, greed or rancor, or because of factional politics, have been able to checkmate the sincere and constructive programs of others.

For the salvation of the state, in this time of crisis, some means to curb these obstructionists and to muzzle the demagogues, must be

Political demagoguery has been the curse of Georgia for too long. Intelligent consideration and businesslike solution of the present impasse in the state's affairs must outweigh personal politics, if the state is not going to remain mired in the mud of ignorance, of ill health and of poverty.

We'll Never Know.

Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, paying tribute to President Roosevelt for his foreign policy, said he believed that, if the President had not sent his peace appeal to Adolf Hitler, Europe would today be in the horror of general war, with a million youths already dead upon the battlefields.

Whether or not this belief is correct we will, in all probability, never know. For it is all predicated upon the effect the Roosevelt policy had upon the mind, and plans, of Hitler. If the Roosevelt attitude convinced the German Feuhrer that he could not resort to war without finding the weight of the United States, either through men or supplies, tossed into the scales against him, and if Hitler for that reason abandoned a planned recourse to arms, Dr. Sanford's praise of the President is fully justified.

However, only Hitler himself can know his own processes of thought, so it is impossible to verify the alleged result of the peace plea. On the other hand, Hitler may not have planned war, as yet. He may be still awaiting the proper conditions, or the set day, to launch his legions against the world.

One fact, though, is incontrovertibly true. A worshipper of force, such as Hitler, will only respect force as an argument. A world, or a nation, that lies supinely helpless before the aspirations of other, more virile peoples, can expect only exploitation and victimization. There need never be war, especially war involving the United States. But the knowledge that this country is prepared for war, if it comes, that its strength is organized and ready, is the greatest factor in the world for the preservation of peace.

Pacifism, "moral rearmament," self-immolation on the altars of non-resistance, may be beautifully idealistic. But nations which practise non-resistance are merely inviting such gangster governments as that of the Nazis to come over and loot them.

Non-aggression is one thing, a very fine thing. Non-resistance is another, and a very foolish thing.

Georgia Products

There have been few, if any, organized movements in Georgia to bring more direct benefit to the state than the annual observance of "Georgia Products Week." In drawing attention to the tremendous variety of goods produced in this state and to the high quality of many of them, the sponsors of this official week have performed a service of inestimable value.

Thousands of housewives have learned of new and delicious products of the fields and streams of Georgia that have become regular features of their family menus. Restaurants have discovered they can fill their larders with Georgia grown fruits and vegetables, with Georgia raised meats, that are as delicious and as economical as the best from anywhere

Textiles and other products of Georgia factories have been emphasized during these weeks by retail stores in all the cities, towns and villages and, through these mediums, the knowledge of things created or raised at home is steadily spreading throughout all consumer-

Yet, excellent as the purpose of the week and its results have been, it must not be imagined that Georgia, or any other state, can prosper by drawing an imaginary wall around its borders. There is too great a tendency, today, to erect artificial state barriers against the products of sister states. In the form of littlecamouflaged tariffs, as inspection laws, license requirements, some states have worked serious injury upon the commerce of the entire nation.

Without free flowing trade between all the states, the nation cannot prosper. Carried to the extreme, state strangulation of interstate commerce would result in complete economic suicide for the country.

Therefore, while it is well to draw all attention possible to those products of Georgia which for quality, for reliability, for freshness and for price are worthy the purchaser's patronage, at the same time it must always be remembered that no Georgia product, nor that of any other state, deserves preference if it is inferior to rival products.

The Georgia producer must furnish goods at least equal to those which can be procured outside the state. If he does this, loyal Georgians will properly give his products the preference. But it is a fundamental of American business, whether that business be agricultural or industrial, that the buyer seeks out the producer who gives the best value for the lowest price. This rule will, and should, continue regardless of the location from which the product

Georgia Products Week and its sponsor, the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, can do no more than draw attention to every Georgia product possible. Once this is done those products must be prepared to compete for the buyers' favor with similar products from any state or section.

HOUSING SUBSIDIES. (From the Washington Post.)

Friends of the housing movement will be very pleased to hear direct from Administrator Nathan Straus that the USHA is vigorously reducing outlays on housing projects. Obviously that means not only a smaller investment per family rehoused but also smaller annual contributions maintain the low-rent character of the new dwellings. Such a course will make it possible to rehouse far more slum dwellers than could otherwise be accommodated.

The annual costs to the federal government and the municipalities co-operating in the development of the first 140 projects aided by the USHA, he says, will be about half of the $312 figure cited by The Post as the annual cost of rehousing a family in the USHA project at Louisville. This would mean a subsidy of about $156 a year per family. Total subsidies granted by the USHA are Total subsidies granted by the USHA are based upon the entire cost of each project. But in estimating the amount of subsidy per family rehoused, the USHA considers only the cost of new improvements. It puts into a separate category the expense of clearing slum sites. The separation of these items is both proper and desireable, but when considering the full costs of reclaiming the slums it is both figures and not one which give an accurate view of total charges against the nublic purse.

So it is the "gross" subsidy of $158 a year per family rehoused, mentioned by Mr. Straus, which is really significant from the public view-point. And to obtain the over-all outlay there must be added the $14.50 per family charged against slum clearing as distinct from rehousing. That makes a total federal subsidy of $172.50 annually per family benefited. And since local contributions in the form of tax exemption are estimated to equal half the federal yearly grants, the total cost of rescuing an average family of slum dwellers from its squalid surroundings and maintaining that family in a USHA dwelling appears to be about $258 annually. That significant fact should not be overlooked by congress when it is confronted by the question of whether the USHA needs an additional $45,000,-000 per year in subsidies to continue its important work of wiping out the slums.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

LABOR POWER STILL HIGH WASHINGTON, May 16.—
Whatever the rights and wrongs of the matter, the outcome of the coal negotiations is a proof of John L. Lewis' shrewd business judgment. The long, difficult row between his United Mine Workers and the coal operators has finally broken Lewis' way. It has done so after the direst predictions, on all sides, that Lewis would defeat his own ends by

Perhaps, in the long run, overaggressiveness may prove politically costly both to Lewis and to the CIO, of which he is the leader and his union the most important member. There are parts of the country, notably the midwestern farming districts, where labor is political poison. But while the CIO (and the AFL, too, for that matter) may be harassed by state laws intended to restrain too emphatic labor practices, their real theater of action is national. From the way the administration quietly assisted the mine workers against the operators, as well as from the way most politicians have held aloof from the dispute over the Labor Relations Board, the necessary inference is that labor's national political pressure is still

There is another inference to be drawn from Lewis' management of the coal negotiations. He bludgeoned his way through, whacking the operators one day and the Labor Department the next, demanding a type of "union shop" which might well have become a talking point for his enemies, and taking the risk of shutting down the mines. As the bludgeoning tactic has again proved useful, Lewis is more than ever unlikely to yield to those who would have him lay aside his customary weapon for a politer instrument.

CIO MILITANCY Indeed, Lewis and his advisers at the CIO are understood to be preparing new plans of a highly militant character. One reason for the deadlock in the coal negotiations was that the AFL had chartered the rebel Progressive Miners' Union. Lewis wished his union to be protected from any inroads by the rival organization. The same phenomenon, of rivals chartered or sponsored by the AFL, is bothering other CIO unions. The CIO is planning an effort to teach the AFL better manners by intensifying its campaign to unionize industries previously domi-nated by the AFL. As a sort of grand gesture, the building trades, long an AFL stronghold, will be ostentatiously invaded. At the same time, the CIO will also ginger up its fight against the AFL's program of changes in the labor relations act. CIO leaders assert that they have a list of AFL unions representing a membership of 1,000,000 which have gone on record against the parent organization's plans. They make the charge, familiar in labor circles, that the AFL leadership "doesn't represent the rank and file," and, in the matter of labor act revision, they may well be right. They are going to have a hard time beating some revision in the end, for they have been aided by the do-nothing spirit of this congress, on which they cannot count in the future. But they may be expected to make an awful row in the meanwhile.

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK The increasing militancy of the CIO bodes ill for labor peace, which is so vital to the political good health of the sadly ailing New Deal. While the CIO grows more determined, the AFL does not grow less so thinks it can win in the end. So, less firmly, does the AFL, which is also moved by a feeling that, since the New Deal gave birth to its plaguey enemy, there is no point in worrying about the New Deal's political convenience. Neither side will even listen to practical proposals for compromise, and the end of the quarrel

The quarrel has become one of the problems which are so tough that the administration turns its back on them. Every so often, the President, or Harry Hopkins, or someone else, peeks backward over his shoulder and makes a futile gesture. Both the CIO and AFL greet the gesture with cheerful contempt, and another period of looking the other way promptly ensues. Currently, the President is understood to be considering the appointment of a board of arbitrators, to whose decision Lewis and President Green, of the AFL, and their respective henchmen would be bound by the pressure of public opinion. But, as neither side is inclined even to listen to a suggestion of real arbitration, the next gesture will probably be as disappointing as its predecessors.

He had a five spot, Thought he'd buy A spot of dissipation; changed his mind And bought, instead, A poor kid's camp vacation.

Off to the Summer Camps. It will not be long now before hundreds of Atlanta youngsters, freed from school for the summer, will be packing up and getting ready to go to one or another of the splendid summer camps for boys or girls that dot the mountain areas of North Georgia, North

With chance for summer vacations spent in the glories of nature at her finest, learning the secrets of the hills and the woods and the mountain streams. NEW YORK. SEC Attention May 16. — The volume of betting on horse races in this country is so large—more than $1,000,000 a day—and the opportunities for larcenous practice and political corruption through bribery are so obvious that this rogue member o the financial community invite the official attention of the Securities and Exchange Commission.
The business is interstate, and while there is some doubt that a bookmaker's slip or his nod on the telephone constitutes a security transaction, the system, nevertheess, exists and is a very substan tial condition, not a theory.

If race betting were a penny ante vice, like the numbers racket it could be ignored by the federal government, except in the zone of the income tax, and its policing left to the local cops. But race betting, as the Treasury and De-partment of Justice have been learning, is a tremendous business which, roughly speaking, blanket the whole country, and the figures are such as to command the re-spectful attention of a government agency charged with the duty of protecting suckers.

In 16 of the 19 states in which racing was permitted by law the volume of betting through the nutuel machines in 1938 was $276,333,000. If the turnover three others-New Louisiana and Maine-be conjec tured and added to the known figare the total will be about a third of a billion.

Chain In addition to this Of Books business an unknown but large amount was gambled on the races by habitua and occasional players through a chain of books. Some of this bet-ting always finds its way to the tracks, however, where it is wagered through the machines for the purpose of regulating the odds against the interests of those who originally put up the money.
Therefore, although we know that etting is an interstate busines and that the mutuel figures are not final, it is impossible to reckor the gross amount.

It is absolutely certain, however that rigging is practiced openly whereby professional gamblers use their clients' money to diminish their winnings when they do win and that in Florida one track pays a premium to such professionals in the form of a trade discount which s not allowed to ordinary bettors Theoretically, the operators of rack are mere brokers, deducting from 4 to 10 per cent of every dollar wagered through their ma chines. They can't lose unless the volume of play falls so low that their commissions are unequal to their expenses, and, theoretically they have no interest in the result of a race. That disinterest loses its fine, impartial purity, however when race track stock falls into the ownership of professiona bookmakers handling millions of public money away from the track.

Notorious And certainly no Racketeers huge, interstate fibased on public trust and confidence should be permitted to op-erate under the ownership, whether open or covert, of notorious racketeers and other underworld characters.

It might be argued that becaus What is wanted is ten new cot-tages, simple places, but designed especially for the purpose. It is estimated that one cottage can be built for $75. Can you think of a finer memorial to some friend or relative who has passed on than a cottage plainly illegal. Yet within the respective states gambling on the races at the tracks is legal and the mutuel ticket is collectable, and the interstate traffic is so grea that the SEC, in the line of its general purpose of protecting the public against swindles, should ateither to police or suptempt press it.

From a practical standpoint the SEC might simply acknowledge that the traffic does exist and stifle it by inquiry, for the slightest show of official curiosity would arouse local interest everywhere in corrupt arrangements whereby local authorities permit the book makers to operate against the law Jersey City would be one promis ing starting point and Chicago an-

Absurd It does seem absurd on the face of matters that more or less legitimate business should be compelled to stand close inspection by the SEC when proposing to issue securitie in comparatively small amounts while an interstate gambling traffic of unknown but obviously vast volume is deemed to be beneath the law and, by the SEC's own standards, viciously corrupt.

The exposure of the influence of race track money on local and state governments and the correc-tion of political impurity in these subdivisions may be beyond the duty of this federal agency. But if these results were achieved just incidentally through a general inquiry there would be no serious public resentment of this invasion of states rights. of state's rights.

We Can Have Classes or Freedom, But We Can't Have Both

they may differ in detail, only two forms of government can long A small privileged class can rule a discontented and underpriviliged majority, provided it has police and military force to suppress all opposition. This is the oldest plan of government in the world and also the newest.

The other system is a government of consent. Chosen representatives, elected by majority vote, can rule with the consent of the people, provided the minority is not a permanent class of the underprivileged and resentfully discontented.

This is the government of free people. And whether it is called a republic or a democracy, it is obvious that it cannot survive the The "outs," whatever their social or economic grievance, must consent to the rule of the "ins" and bide their time to win at the polls. The gentry in England and on the Continent laugh at our doctrine of equality; and some of our own people, when they become rich, recent the theory that the humblest are equal to them. The usual answer to criticism is that American equality means that no class, because of birth, can enjoy special privileges, and all have equal opportunity according to their abilities, and all are equal before the law.

That is true. Yet freedom, to preserve itself, must constantly endeavor to make all men equal in fact-equal in intelligence, ed-

That is a dream ideal, yet freedom must work to that end, and make progress to that end, or democracy cannot survive. It is man's nature to compete with man and strive to excel-to get ahead. That is commendable and necessary, for it accounts for nearly all progress. Yet those who have got ahead, and wish ve their advantage by keeping others down, are enemies

Convenes in Atlanta.

Fifty thousand delegates from 61 nations will represent the world's Baptist population of ap-proximately 12,000,000 when the Baptist World Alliance convenes here July 22, Dr. E. P. Alldredge, Southern Baptist statistician, has estimated.

The choice of Atlanta as the meeting place is peculiarly appro-priate, Dr. Alldredge said, as proportionately Georgia has more Baptists than any other compara-ble area in the world. 2.575 Churches.

At the last count, the church in Georgia numbered 518,278 white members in 96 associations with 2,575 churches and 2,020 preachers, and 529,000 negro Baptists in 132 associations with 4,214 churches and 4,334 preachers.

Evolution of Dance Traced in Pageant, Part of Commencement Rites.

Gaily-dressed Washington Seminary students yesterday turned back the pages of history and traced the evolution of the modern dance-minus jitterbugs-in their annual May Day festival as part of the sixty-second commencement ceremonies. The colorful pageant, staged in the picturesque, grass-covered amphitheater at the rear of the Seminary, began with the ancient Egyptian, Greek and Roman dances, and followed through to the modern trends, which were confined to dances of the gay nineties, followed by the Big Apple, Lambeth Walk and tap. Caroline Yundt was crowned may queen, and her maid of honor was Carroll See. Other queen's maids were Mary Lee Davidson, Caribell Mason, Emmie Martin, Elsie Dunnick, Frances Cundell, Jean McIntosh, Mary Frances Broach and Mary Clans. Broach and Mary Clapp.

The entire student body participated, and several hundred parents and friends of the students vded around the court to watch the festivities.

Many costumes of a variety of colors were paraded before the audience to depict the different eras of the dance. European in-fluences revealed were Russian, French, Scotch, Viennese and Dr. Ryland Knight will preach the baccalaureate service at 11

"Cold-Wall" Frigidaire is an entirely new hind of refrigerator!

You don't bave to cover foods in a "Cold-Wall" Frigidaire, yet they keep their vital freibness, appearance, and natural juice day after day!

This amazing new "Cold-Wall" Frigidaire...first of its kind ever built

...saves foods from drying out...with-out covers of any kind! But just as startling, it preserves freshness, flavor, color . . . yes, even rich nutritional values of food for days on end! Because with this sensational new refrigeration principle, foods are not dried out by moisture-robbing air currents. he vital values stay in food ... because they don't dry out! No other refrigerator can bring you greater advancements. Because only Frigidaire has the "Cold-Wall". Greater storage capacity, because now dishes and foods can be packed closer

HOW AMAZING "COLD-WALL" PRINCIPLE WORKS

A solid glass partition - called a "Dew-Fresh-Seal"-divides the Frigidaire cabinet into 2 compartments. The upper compartment is refrigerated by the Super-Freezer, just as always. The lower compartment is refrigerated directly through the walls by concealed refrigerating coils. This provides all 3 essentials for keeping foods vitally fresh longer than ever before! 1. Uniform Low Temperaturea. 2. 85 to 100% Numbidity. 3. No Moisture-Robbing Air Circulation. All without adding a single moving part! AND ONLY FRIGIDAIRE HAS IT! FRIGIDAIRE HAS IT!

together and without fear of odorand-flavor transfer! No messy wrap-ping of food is necessary! And think of the savings in food . . . because left-over meats, cooked and fresh veg-etables of all kinds keep as delicious as when first prepared!

It's new throughout. New SuperMoist Hydrators for preserving up to 100% natural moisture in fresh fruits and vegetables. New Meat-Tender for saving fresh meats. New improved Quickube Trays for fastest freezing and removal of ice cubes. And the famous Meter-Miser for rock-bottom operating costs. Frigidaire offers you all these exclusive features, plus the dependability and long life that make the "Cold-Wall" a great General Motors value. Yet, the "Cold-Wall" Frigidaire costs no more than ordinary "firstline" refrigerators. It's the refrigerator of tomorrow that can so easily be yours today! See it at your Frigidaire dealer's. Onnie Robinson Pitches Crackers to 11-2 Win Over Pelicans

Pel Player Hurt Going to Second

Kid Fans Applaud Cracker Victory

On the ground is Monaco, left fielder of the New Orleans Pelicans. Monaco was on first and when Frank Scalzi singled, he broke for second. Apparently Monaco twisted his leg, as he fell like a dead man and nullified Scalzi's hit, since he was unable to reach second and was retired officially as a forceout. Monaco left the game and Catcher Jack Redmond took his place in left field. The enthusiastic lads at the right are part of the "kids' day" turnout which witnessed and cheered the Crackers' decisive 11-2 victory. Onnie Robinson and Manager Paul Richards were the big stars of the Crackers. Robinson pitched 7-hit ball and Richards got 3 hits.

J. P. Pullin Takes Trapshooting Title

Winner Breaks 116 Targets in Row; Jack Tway Is Second; Finals Today.

By ROY WHITE.

Breaking 116 targets straight after an unsteady start, J. P. Pullin, of McDonough, Ga., was crowned Georgia's trapshooting champion Tuesday afternoon at the Capitol Gun Club in the annual tournament. Pullin's 194 out of 200 targets topped Jack Tway's 190 by four birds.

Tuesday's victory was the first time that Pullin has fired a gun in more than two years and it was his fourth Georgia championship. The new champion missed several Young Clayton Boardman Jr. of birds in the first two events, while warming up, but settled down to a fine run of 100 straight in the last four events. He had broken 16 straight in the fourth event and this gave him high run for the day and a fine chance to win the straight run for the tournament, with the carry-over going into today's finals.

Pullin fought hard for his straight run and barely chipped the last clay, just enough for the referee to call it a dead bird. He really struggled for that last kill, even though he was several clays ahead of his nearest opponent. CLASS B. WINNER.

JOHNSON WINS MEDAL. MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 16.—(A) Weir, 26-year-old southpaw for-merly of the Boston Bees, turned in the International league's first no-hit, no-run pitching perform-ance of the season today in hurl-ing the Toronto Maple Leafs to an 8-to-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Dutch Leonard recently was named "Man of the Month" in afternoon. It's Lee's lifelong ama newspaper contest being conducted by Walter Johnson. The former Cracker performed the most meritorious service to his Washington club for that period.

No one has thought, however, to present the names of the time it's been done in the National the hour or even year.

Clark Griffith, Washington owner, and his son-inlaw, Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, are in accord in the belief that the New York Yankees won't win the American league pennant this season.

That has long been the belief of Griffith, and the Yankees have gone ahead year after year and upset his calculations. But this is the first time Cronin, the sonin-law whom Griffith peddled to the Red Sox for a fabulous sum, has agreed with "the old man" on the possibility of there being a vulnerable spot in the Yankee Cronin's thought in the matter is that the Red Sox are now n a position to offer the Yankees serious contention. "I think my pitching staff is as good as the Yanks," Cronin has said. In that connection, he praised the skill of Jim Bagby, the Atlanta boy; Woody Rich, star rookie up from Little Rock, and eligible for the national finals here several others. He listed these two as the standouts.

It is refreshing, indeed, to know that at least one pilot in the American league feels that all is not lost before the season is well under way.

The odds don't bear out Joe Cronin's optimism. The big bookmakers still hold the Yankees at the shortest odds in baseball history and, meanwhile, have length-ened odds on the Red Sox doing anything about the Yankee domination.

It does seem a bit hazardous and not quite reasonable to risk anything against an organization that has such talent as the Yanks have doing nothing but wasting away on the bench.

Maybe Cronin feels, however, that they can play only nine nen at a time and that all that great talent on the bench provides nothing more potent than a high-priced cheerleading

Which is, unquestionably, one way of looking at it. A REAL PUZZLER.

The baseball "puzzle of the month" hereabouts concerns the absence from action of Uncle Tom Sunkel with the St. Louis

The Cards are doing very well by themselves in the National league race, with Johnny Mize, the Georgia boy, once again proving he is one of the better hitters in baseball.

But a pitcher of the undoubted caliber of Sunkel is not being used. The Cards have started him only once. He did not fare at all well in his debut and had to be relieved. Nothing has been heard from him since.

Sunkel was as good a pitcher as the Southern league Continued on 2nd Sports Page.

Pels on Seven Hits

By JACK TROY.

The Crackers still looked like the Yankees in their new uniforms yesterday, but this time the resemblance did not end there.

The Southern league's defending champions teed off on Nat Love and John Beazley, securing an even dozen hits and evening the series with the Pelicans by winning the second game in a walk, 11 to 2. Chattanooga's loss to Birmingham last night left the Crackers only one game out of first place. Onnie Robinson, tall rookie right-hander, gave up only seven scattered hits and never at any time gave the invaders the slight-

As soon as Roche entered his corner for the second fall and even before the bell rang, Luttrell charged him with both fists. When hostilities were officially resumed, and Dorv removed his robe, the incensed ex-coal miner tore after the giant Cowboy, knocking him down a half-dozen times and finally putting on a surfboard hold that had Luttrell helpless. Luttrell yelped "enough," but despite Referee Doc Lanford's earn at efforts, Dorv wouldn't let go. He meant to put an end to Luttrell for all time. Colorado Linksman

Scores Fourth Ace STERLING, Colo., May 16 .-(P)—Noel Keim, sterling golfer, has a fourth hole-in-one on his card-after 12 years of trying.

Keim made his first ace in Denver in 1916, repeated in 1926 at Evergreen, Colo., and did the trick again on a Rivera, Cal.,

It may be that Sunkel said something about having a sore arm and Ray Blades, Card manager, took him at his word. He did his best pitching for Atlanta when he seemed to have something wrong with him. It became a clubhouse joke, because every time Uncle Sunk seemed at his lowest ebb he pitched his finest ball. Sunk appeared in an exhibition game briefly day before yesterday.

No fooling dept.: "Home Comes the Conquering Host" read a heading over the box scores in the Chattanooga Times following the Lookouts' double victory over Memphis Sunday.

. . Birmingham players apparently don't subscribe to the paper because the conquering host was submitted to a 5-to-o shutout Monday in Engel stadium. . . . Something in a similar vein happened at Ponce de Leon. . . . The Crackers had knocked off four straights and apparently were all set for a killing. . . . But New Orleans hadn't heard about it and the Crackers were treated to a 2-to-0 whitewashing. . . . There ought to be some way for the boys who sit out in the bleachers to find out whether a play is scored as a hit or an error. . . . The "sun gods" are the backbone of baseball attendance and are entitled to know. . . . Maybe some desirable system can be worked out. . . . That coin trick mentioned earlier in the week is making magicians out of a lot of blokes who couldn't hide a needle in a haystack. . . . A certain Forsyth street concern which deals in novelties has sent one to this correspondent. . . . It's as simple as shooting fish in a bathtub, if you know how. . . . The trick is guaranteed to make you the life of any party, including the Republican. . . . Buford's crack semi-pro baseball team will play the last games at home until the middle of June this week end. . . . A pair of games is scheduled with Goodyear of Gadsden under the lights on Friday and Saturday. . . . Around 6,000 Atlantans were impressed by Mr. John Allen's nine here last week. . . . The Shoe-makers and the Yankees have something in common, in this way. . . One looks like as good a bet to defend its national semi-pro title as the other does to repeat in the American league and World Series. . . Incidentally, by some strange quirk of reporting, there was an error the Fulton Bag-Warren game of Sunday. . . . It was the Fulton Bag "B" team which lost to Warren, 16 to 0, not the regulars. . . . It was no surprise to the Crackers when Freddy Hutchinson, the Tigers' $100,000 pitching investment, was shipped to Toledo for more seasoning. . . Hutch faced the Crackers in the spring and they were amazed to discover he had no fast ball. . . . They commented at the time that if he stayed in the majors with what he showed them, that possibly they had at least two 100-grand prospects scouts were overlooking. . . . Reverse English: Football showed a deficit at the University of Oregon last year, but basketball showed a profit of $17,000. . . . Skeeter Scalzi, Pel shortstop, is in a good spot.

.. He can kick a few without drawing the ire of Manager Roger Peckinpaugh. . . . Peck once booted eight in a World Series. . . . Umpires try harder than most people not to make mistakes. . . . It's well to bear that in mind. . . "You can't beat them hours," but they are two of the toughest hours any group of professional men spend on any day. BOTHERED BY SINUS

U. S. G. A. Adopts Sectional Qualifying System for National Meet.

NEW YORK, May 16 .- (A)-The United States Golf Association has adopted a sectional qualifying system for the national public links championship similar to those of the open and amateur tournaments, it was announced to-

District rounds of 36 holes have been scheduled in 31 cities to be played from June 30 to July 10. They will qualify approximately 200 players for the championship proper at Baltimore July 24-29, entries for which close July 13.

In previous years an unlimited number of qualifying rounds were allowed and from each location a team of four was permitted to go to the championship.

Under the new system bona fide residents of a city or its suburbs are eligible for a team, consisting of the three low scorers in the district round, to compete for the team championship. Former champions, who are exempt from the district qualifying, must compete to establish their eligibility for the team. This will not affect the automatic eligibility for the champion-

Shakeup Announced After Security Commission's Charges.

NEW YORK, May 16 .- (A)-Retirement of three top executives of Union Electric Company of Missouri was announced today as an aftermath of charges by the Securities and Exchange Co sion that the company illegally made contributions to political parties.

J. F. Fogarty, president of North American Company, big utility holding concern, which controls the Missouri company, disclosed that Louis H. Egan, president; Frank J. Boehm, executive vice president, and A. C. Laun, vice president, all of St. Louis, "are withdrawing" from Union Electric "in the interest of the stockholders of both companies."

Fogarty's announcement made no reference to successors to the retiring officials.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity Honors Sister of Late Founder

By Sally Forth.

WHEN the Epsilon Chapter of S. A. E. fraternity at Emory University entertained last Sunday at its annual Mother's Day party, among the honor guests was Mrs. Frances Brown Chase. Mrs. Chase, you know, is the sister of the late Walter R. Brown, who founded Epsilon chapter at Emory at Oxford, Ga., in 1881.

The popular Atlantan is muchly beloved by the Emory S. A. E.'s, Brown, who founded and for many years she has manifested great interest in the countless activities of the fraternal group.

Last Sunday's occasion assembled 100 proud parents of Emory S. A. E.'s from over the state, who were greeted by Mrs. J. S. Alexander, gracious house mother of the host chapter. Mrs. Chase wore the founders' medal awarded her late brother for his splendid service to the fraternity, of which he was president. The handsome medal is suspended from his gold watch chain, now one of Mrs. Chase's most prized possessions. On her left shoulder the attractive honor guest wore a shoulder spray of fragrant flow-ers sent her by "the fraternity brothers" early Sunday morning.

Sally recalls that last year Mrs. Chase presented the Epsilon chapter its gold-framed charter, accompanied by an oil painting of her brother, both of which now occupy prominent places in the stately fraternity house.

Present officers of the Emory S. A. E.'s are Leroy Denny, of this city, president; Ernest Har-well, also of Atlanta, vice presi-dent; Calvin Kytle, of this city, secretary, and Charles Lee, of Vidalia, treasurer.

MR. AND MRS. R. L. GATCH-ELL have issued unusually attractive invitations to the steak fry which they have planned for Nettie Lee Greer and her fiance, Jim Howard, on Saturday eve-

On a folder of rough gray pa-per Mrs. Gatchell has demonstrated her artistic ability by sketching in ink the head of a buil—a buil with a rather sad expression

Which is easily explained. For beneath the sad-faced sketch is the following clever invitation:
"What? The dismemberment of Ferdinand.

"When? Saturday, May 20, 7 p. m.
"Where? The Watsons' place,

In lieu of the usual envelope, Mrs. Gatchell folded her invitations into triangles and sealed them by means of small red seals.

When Nettie Lee becomes Jim's bride at a beautiful evening ceremony at the Druid Hills Presbyterian church on June 15, she will wear the veil worn by her matron of honor, Mrs. George R. Copeland Jr., the former Betty Jones. Betty and Nettie Lee have been close friends since they first started to North Avenue school, where they were classmates for six years and later at Agnes Scott for two years. Of course Nettie Lee was included among Betty's bridesmaids at her marriage to George at All Saints church in 1938.

The veil of tulle will fall from a becoming coronet of plaited white satin, with the satin motif repeated in a narrow border around the brief face veil.

WHEN members of the P.-T.
A. gather for their meeting today at North Fulton High school, an unusual program will be presented in the form of a "Home Economics Pageant." There will be many proud mothers in attendance, for their daughters will stage a fashion show wearing clothes they have made during the past term at school. Marion Candler, better known as Bootsie," will act as master of ceremonies and will be narrator for the program. A special skit on "The Budget" will be given by LaRue Mizell, Dorothy Hunt and

In addition to these features, there will be exhibits of table setting for various meals, informal formal, while scrapbooks made by the girls will also be on play. "How Home Economics Connected With Other Subjects in School" will be the theme of the show and the program.

To Present Operetta.

The North Avenue Presbyterian Kindergarten will be presented at the school in Inman Hall Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock in unison "Dream Bags," by their teacher, Mrs. W. L. Curry. Taking part are Mary Brooke, May Lou DeLoach, Barbara Knox, Robert Levin, Patsy Lee, Jane Ray Medlock, Jimmy Sturgis, Charles Waite, Virginia Smith, Jean Stein, J. P. Floyd, Jacqueline Suggart, Ellen Gunn, Ronnie Goldstein, Herbert Gordy and Joe Sayer.

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY. Somewhere in my files, no doubt, is the copy of an item or two published in this column within the past five years telling of the conclusion reached by sta-tisticians, economists or maybe just doctors or hygienists, that every inch in girth over the normal for age and height after 30 means one year, or is it two years? deducted from one's life expectancy..

Now for Pete's sake if your girth rate is high don't blame me for reminding you that your life line shrinks as your equator ex-pands. If you still have enough interest in health, vite and longevity to read stuff like this you will not resent a warning given before it is too late to heed it. Anyway, there it is. Personally I believe it is as true as any prin-ciple of health or hygiene can be. Moreover, I find it a comforting thought or a reassurance that one can stretch one's life expectancy beyond the average by simply practicing reasonable regulation of diet and doing a few rather enjoyable exercises every day.

Somehow I rate life highly, perhaps I appraise health too highly, too, but not unless all the maxims and sayings of poets and phi-

Remember Teeth MY DAY Another Interesting Visit to the Fair

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—I arrived at New York city rather late last night, having waited to have supper with my husband and guests in Washington. We had a very pleasant drive in the afternoon to Annapolis, my first glimpse of the academy this year. The view from Bancroft Hall out to sea, with all the little salling ships tacking back and forth is a sight to be remembered.

forth, is a sight to be remembered.

My husband used to say that these boys never had a chance to really learn to sail at the academy, but judging by the sight yesterday afternoon, they must be doing a great deal of sailing.

Admiral and Mrs. Brown gave us tea and let us have a glimpse of their garden. I hope the youngster who was with us will think more of John Paul Jones after seeing his final resting place in the crypt of the chapel, and that the flag with "Don't Give Up the Ship" on it, will make that particular incident in our naval history an unforgettable one.

Today has been spent at the New York World's Fair. Mrs. Helm, Miss Lape, Miss Thompson and I got out there about 11:30 and found our way to the Trylon and went inside the perisphere. I did not feel that, as yet, one saw a very clear picture of the world of tomorrow. There was more space in the city and it die world of tomorrow our airplanes will have changed and there will be many more inventions than are suggested by the present projection in the perisphere.

Then we got into what I like to call the "buses with the musical horns," and progressed to the federal building. I want to spend a long time in that building some day. On these visits, when I have a limited amount of time, I am not trying really to see it, though

Mr. Flynn was kind enough to ask us to come over.

We did spend some time in the Norwegian pavilion. They have a round rug in the lobby which, in color, is one of the most attractive things I have seen in a long time. I was particularly impressed by their enamel work and must go back some day and have a really good look at the different handcraft articles they have on

From there I went to the luncheon for Brooklyn Day. Mrs. William H. Good was in charge, and had asked me to be one of her guests today, for this was women's day. Afterwards we went to the national advisory committee building, where four little girls in Dutch costumes presented me with a particular variety of tulip named after me last year. Mr. Grover Whalen greeted me before an informal reception was held.

Then to the British pavilion for tea and to hear their very excellent Cold Stream Guards band play "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King" in most inspiring fashion.

By Caroline Chatfield. Dear Miss Chatfield: I hope you know the answer to this one because I'm stumped. My boy friend is Damon to a Pythias. Pythias hasn't a car but he has a girl friend and Damon feels that he must always double-date so Pythias will have a way to entertain his girl, which would be all right if the girl and I were congenial. She loves to sit in beer joints and drink, go to public dance places, and we don't drink and don't dance like that. My friend is good natured and doesn't object to doing what the others suggest—but I do. I can't say much because I don't want to offend anybody. What I really want is private dates and I can't figure out a way to get them. PEG. Of all the happy young couples whose names appear in the society sections this month and later on the list of couples joined together in matrimony, 80 per cent will start their married life on a budget of $35 a week or less! So says the learned statistician! Of course, $35 is no princely income, but with all due care paid to the pennies as well as to the dollars, happiness and a right good home may be maintained on this amount. That is one of the reasons The Constitution has such a carefully edited Woman's Page, where helpful hints of all kinds are handed on to the housewife, as well as to the woman of fashion. In the M. G. Answer: Just bide your time, Peg. When Damon really falls for you, he will take care of the private details. At present Pythias comes first in his scheme and he's more concerned with pleasing him than with pleasing you. As surely as you try to push the other pair out of the car you'll lose your place on the front seat.

Fate has dealt you a fine hand; but you must play it well or the game goes against you. When circumstances make it necessary for you to spend time with a party that's drinking, you can put the straw in the soft drink bottle and suck as long as the others quaff. All the while you will be build-ing up a reputation that raises you in the boy friend's estimation; for however much the boys enjoy a big evening they have genuine respect for the girls who do not indulge in rough stuff.

Furthermore, you will have to refrain from showing irritation at Pythias' presence. Just re-member he wouldn't be there if Damon didn't want him. Even if you are uncongenial with his girl, you can manage to be agreeable with her until you've got your man, after which there

Height Alone Is Not Basis For Measurements of Body By Ida Jean Kain.

If that rule were to hold true for anyone, it would be the girl who is structurally very small. But, supposing that you are 5 feet 2 inches tall with a very stock frame. Your normal weight would be 120 pounds and if it were properly distributed, you could not possibly have only a 32-inch not possibly have only a 32-inch bust measurement. Or take the rule of the 25-inch waistline for the girl of 5 feet, adding one-half inch to the waistline for each additional inch of height. This would work out beautifully for some figures, and not at all for others.

Normal weight and symmetry are the only reliable specifications for a beautiful figure. Given weight within 10 per cent of normal, symmetry depends on a proportionate difference between the bust, waist and hips. The beautiful figure will have a waist that is eight inches smaller than the bust, and hips not more than three inches larger than the bust. That's symmetry in all sizes!

But let's see what happens when one measurement gets out of line. Suppose your waistline is only four or five inches smaller than the bust—you have a middle-aged figure! Car Overturns While Gern Is Driving Glada Home. She Is Badly Hurt

By JOSEPH McCORD.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Glada Lee worries her mother because the dropped her university course two years, went to state agricultural college and now is more interested in her chicken farm than in matrimony. Educe, her father, is a lawyer and Dale City's leading citizen. Her older brothers, Bailey and Trevor, are married and Masters, the youngest, is engaged to Evelyn Barclay for whose father he works in the nearby Kedron bank, and Mary Lee feels that her daughter should settle down. After Mrs. Lee has their good-looking young pastor, the Rev. Mr. Lynn Stirling, to dinner, she suggests he would make a good husband. Glada says she isn't interested in marriage. The next day the minister goes to Glada's farm and tells her he loves her, saying as he leaves, "Some day—I intend to marry you." Cobb Peters, her farm manager, breaks his leg and she gives Gern Jones, a down-and-outer, a Job. He gives evidence of culture but has a pur. Inling manner. Tess Sidbury tells Glada that Masters filted her. She can't face this, she says, must go away and needs $1,000. When Glads says she hasn't that much Tess threatens to go to the Barclays. Masters tells Glada he met the girl at a party, there was drinking and what happened is hazy. Finally Glada contides in Stirling. He sees Tess and reports she "listened to reason." When Masters writes that the girl is bragging she held him up for "a grand." Stirling admits he paid her $1,000. Glada sells her farm to J. Q. Adams but he becomes sick and asks her to remain in charge. She pays Stirling $1,000. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Part of Day's Setback Attributed to Liquidation by Tired Holders.

Daily Stock Summary. Dow-Jones Averages. STOCKS.

What Stocks Did.

Total issues 752 NEW YORK, May 16 .- (AP)-Selling of a more insistent type hit the stock market today and dropped leaders fractions to around 2 points. There were a few isolated losers of 4 or so. The list moped in a narrow range at the start, then began to slide under larger volume in the second hour. There were several subsequent slow-downs. Final prices, however, were near the lows of the day. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1.1 points at 44.8. It was the largest recession since April 8. Transfers totalled 620,540 stocks, compared with 334,600 the day before.

Part of the day's set-back was attributed to liquidation by fired holders who decided to reduce commitments in view of the in-ability of the market to climb out of the rut in which it had re-mained for the past several weeks. The opinion was that European developments proved a neutral market influence, with war fears tending to fade. Losses of fractions to more than a point in the curb were posted for Lockheed, Electric posted for Lockheed, Electric Bond & Share, Consolidated Cop-per, Standard Steel Spring and Niagara Hudson Power. Turn-over of 116,000 shares, compared with 68,000 Monday.

CHICAGO, May 16.—(P)—Rains in Texas and official and private forecasts predicting further moisture relief over much of the grain belt caused selling that lowered wheat prices more than a cent a bushel today.

The market was weak throughout the session, although there were frequent small rallies after the low of 73 3-8 cents for July and September contracts, representing the 1939 crop, was reached. May wheat fell as much as 1 5-8 cents to 76 3-4 before rallying. All contracts closed 7-8 to 1 3-8 lower than yesterday, with July and September at 73 1-2 to 73 5-8.

Industrials and Utilities Are Uneven While Foreign Issues Rally.

Daily Bond Averages.

NEW YORK, May 16 .- (A)-Railroad bonds slumped sharply today in a moderately active mar-ket which saw United States Treasuries up as much as 8-32d point to new highs.

Independent strength in the United States governments based, according to dealers, on relative scarcity of offerings and persistent institutional demand spurred by the vast volume of idle funds.

The trend on rails, however, was in the opposite direction. De-clines of fractions to more than a point were recorded for ghany stamped 5s of '50 at 26 1-8; St. Paul 5s at 6 3-4; Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 57; Illi-nois Central 4 3-4s at 42 3-8; Southern Railway 4s at 47, and Northern Pacific 4s at 72.

Industrials and utilities were narrowly uneven.

Foreign government issues generally advanced, with preference being shown for the part paid 7s of Greece, Polish 7s, and South American loans. Transactions totaled $5,252,900 face value, compared with $3,-812,925 yesterday.

Atlanta spot cotton clos steady, middling f. o. b. 9.65. AVERAGE PRICE. NEW ORLEANS, May 16.-

(R)—The average price of mid-dling cotton today at 10 south-ern spot markets was 12 points higher at 9.15 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 8.73 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, May 16.—(P)— Near-by cotton deliveries moved forward today as the May delivery expired at noon for a net gain of 22 points. The final range in other contracts was unchanged to 12 points higher.

May closed at 9.25 cents, or 88 cents a bale above the average price of spot cotton at 10 designated markets at the close Tues-day. The open interest in the spot month was liquidated in orderly fashion despite issuance of 22 delivery notices. The latter were reported stopped by southeastern mill interests. Last-minute covering, however, forced shorts to bid up to 9.25 cents to obtain contracts.

A buying movement in July developed late in the session. Demand here was based, according to cotton analysts, on the current price of July, now some 60 points below the cost of actual cotton. Since most brokers appeared con-vinced loan stocks of the staple would not be released before the season ends, the tight spot situa-tion seems likely to continue. Exports today 937 bales; season so far 3,202,403. Port receipts 4,394; port stocks 2,059,352.

MEN selected will be grounded in equipment uses at our local branch and started immediately in permanent, full-time connection at good income. Men over 24 preferred, as these openings involve responsibility. We require no deposit or investment, but you must be reputable and be able to carry out details you learned in preliminary practice. The functions of this electrical unit are so unusual that some special preparation is required and applicant should be able to get along on $25 to $40 a week while learning. Later, as you master this work, your income will be materially increased. Previous experience unnecessary because new methods must be learned by everyone starting with us. These opportunities are for men who are willing to work hard and study for high incomes. Men selected must start training Thursday morning for two days. Personal preliminary interviews only, 10 to 12 noon or 2 p. m. sharp. Suite 408 Henry Grady Bidg. (not hotel), Atlanta, Georgia. Do You Need? Simply let us know the amount and we will make arrangements for a loan without delay. The entire transaction is strictly confidential and will be completed quickly.

SIMPLIFIED LOAN METHOD Amounts up to several hundred dollars.

Along the sloping face of the wall there were many projections that offered a precarious security for hands and feet. As they descended eautiously, a strange rhythmical thud sounded near-by, accompanied by the trumpeting of elephants. Closer and closer came the sounds.

Then lights showed through the brush. "The Tohrian jungle guard, mounted on elephants! Climb no lower! If they see or hear us we are lost," Ukah cautioned. His warning found D'Arnot clinging desperately to a tiny fragment of stone, his feet swinging clear.

"I cannot hang here much longer!" D'Arnot whispered "Hold fast a moment longer." Ukah urged, "for there is only one more of them to pass." "I—cannot," the Frenchman sighed, "I—Fm slipping." Slowly, inexorably, his burning fingers slid from the stone!
